"I just knew that you get out of high school and you go to college. That's what you do, and that's what I did ... It just feels like you can't get a decent job ... I knew I had to get an education."

— Chloe (U.S.)

The background image is a dimly lit interior space. In the foreground, there is a plaid sofa with a dark, textured cushion. The background is out of focus, showing warm, yellowish lights and dark silhouettes of people or furniture, creating a cozy but somber atmosphere.

"I want to have a good job and enough money to support my family. To have everything paid, all of their bills, and help my parents and my family in Nepal."

— Nima (U.S.)

Helping students engage and succeed requires first meeting their basic needs.

About that student who sleeps in class.

The New Economics of College– Everywhere?

- College prices are higher than ever
- Most family incomes are stagnant
- The safety net is shredded
- Work doesn't pay
- Colleges are underfunded

"I'm having trouble providing for my mom.. at times she needs help so I've been helping with her bills...Yeah sometimes I feel like I don't want to pay for this, but at the same time, when I look back and I needed this when I was younger, she worked hard for me." – U.S., Paying the Price

“With no funding and with my father as the only provider in the family how can he pay for my fees, textbooks, food, transport, accomodation? If he has to put a roof over our heads and food on the table for the family, how much change is left for me?”
-- South Africa, In Our Own Words

We neglect Maslow in America too.

FOOD SECURITY

I couldn't afford to eat balanced meals.

Did you ever eat less than you felt you should because there wasn't enough money for food?

Did you ever cut the size of your meals or skip meals because there wasn't enough money for

I worried whether my food would run out before I got money to buy more.

The food that I bought just didn't last and I didn't have money to get more.

Financial constraints

Financial worries plague almost all students.

Food insecurity affects almost 70%!

Financial constraints

These numbers align with a 2015 estimate at the University of the Free State (65%)

Food insecurity affects students of all colors and educational backgrounds.

In both South Africa and the U.S. students experiencing basic needs insecurity spend as much time on college, but more time working & less time sleeping.

Without their basic needs secured, students feel ashamed, alone, less engaged, and unable to focus on learning. They often feel hopeless.

"It is a mission to find accommodation, especially if you don't have deposit money."

-- South Africa, In Our Own Words

"You feel pressured to make it work...[but] is the food you're eating good for your brain?"

-- South Africa, In Our Own Words

We can and must do better.

Addressing students' economic needs is both cost-effective and social justice promoting.

Activate everyone—

Integrate the security of students' basic needs into the student engagement framework.

Educate the students and the front line—and raise awareness with a statement on the syllabus.

“Any student who faces challenges securing their food or housing and believes this may affect their performance in the course is urged to contact the Dean of Students for support. Furthermore, please notify the professor if you are comfortable in doing so. This will enable her to provide any resources that she may possess.”

Emergency aid is helpful.

But it must be flexible, inclusive, and move FAST.

Connect every dot. Access every resource.

- Support FAMILIES to support students.
- Engage religious and nonprofit groups.

No Student Poverty Hungry Bursary Programme

- Started in 2011 at the University of the Free State
- Modest food allowance and access to 1 daily meal on campus
- One food bursary amounts to R6 845 per year (R37 per day for 185 academic days)
- We are evaluating similar programs in Boston and Houston

Address the meal gap.

“In 2010 the average residence fee without food was R13 283, and the average residence fee including meals was R30 924 ”

"Full cost of study necessary for success at university, including: "meals and accommodation (adequate housing and proper nutrition)"

--Report of the Working Group On Fee Free University Education for the Poor in South Africa, 2012

South Africa spends less than 1% of GDP on higher ed—spending 1% would mean increased revenue of R11 billion
